Choice Poetry.

AFTER THE BURIAL.

BY JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

YES, Faith is a goodly anchor;
When skies are sweet as a psalm,
At the bows it lolls so stalwart
To bluff broad-shouldered calm,

And when, over breakers to leeward,
The tattered surges are hurled,
It may keep our head to the tempest,
With its grip on the base of the world.

But, after the shipwreck, tell me
What help in its iron fluws,
Still true to the broken bowser,
Deep down among sea weeds and ooze?

In the breaking gulfs of sorrow,
When the helpless feet stretch out,
And find in their eyes of darkness
No footing so solid as doubt,

Then better one spar of memory,
One broken plank of the past,
That our human heart may cling to,
Though hopeless of shore at last!

To the spirit its splendid conjectures,
To the flesh its sweet despair,
Its lease o'er the thin worn pocket
With its beauty of deathless hair!

Immortal? I feel it and know it;
Who doubts it of such as she?
But that is the pang's very secret—
Immortal away from me!

There's a narrow ridge in the graveyard
Would scarce stay a child in his race;
But to me and my thoughts it is wider
Than the sure-sown vague of space.

Your logic, my friends, is perfect,
Your morals most drearily true,
But the earth that slops my darling's ears
Makes mine inwesate too;

Console, if you will; I can bear it;
'Tis a well meant alms of breath;
But not all the preaching since Adam
Has made Death other than Death.

Communion in spirit! Forgive me,
But I, who am earthly and weak,
Would give all my incomes from dreamland
For her rose-leaf palm in my cheek!

That little shoe in the corner,
So worn and wrinkled and lonely—
Its mouthless hollow confutes you,
And nigates your wisdom down.

Miscellaneous.

Money and Morals.

BY REV. J. L. CORNING.

EVERY young man adventuring upon the game of Success has a will to succeed, but whether or not a way is open, only experiment can determine. A hungry ambition for success easily gets to be a demand, as unconditional as that of a bandit with his fingers clutching the throat of the wayfarer. The old heathen used to get angry with their deities, and abuse them with all blasphemous epithets if they did not grant their prayers. So I have seen men of such grasping greed for gain, that if they should threaten the great God of Destiny with vengeance, in case their desires were denied, the blasphemning would but truly express the degree of their voracious appetite. "Ye gods and goddesses, give me SUCCESS!" cries the man. "And pray, in what manner?" the Divinities of Fate reply. "No matter what manner, so that I have it," prays the insane devotee. In that audacious petition, or in the thought which fathers it, sounds the death-knell of Virtue, Truth, Honor, and every noble element of manhood. That ambition which will take no denial of Fate shall be the mattock, and pick, and bar, with which all that is of good report in the soul shall be undermined and doomed to chaotic ruin. With slow or speedy tread the process of moral dissolution may go forward to its final and fatal result. Little crafts may pave the way to great falsehoods; the petty larcenies which the code of Commerce legitimates lead to the gigantic swindles which make National Finance stagger and quake to its centre. Come the moral disaster, soon or late, it matters little—it will certainly eventuate in this damning process. Gravitation will no more certainly bring a stone to the earth than an unconditional greed of gain will bring a man to the lowest abysses of moral infamy.

When epidemics spread over a community there is always a certain class of people in certain physical conditions who fall victims to them. So, when there come seasons of great financial inflation, which are the epidemics of commerce, there is always a certain style of men who become inveigled into moral if not material ruin. The monetary expansion of the last four years has been making ready for the harvest of fraud and villainy which we behold to-day. Money was scattered over the land like leaves in Autumn. It was a game of cards, in which every body participated. People who were born in a hovel and reared with a spade in their fist, by a strange freak of fortune, woke up one morning at Saratoga with a coach and four, with plenty and elegance appended to them—like a philosopher's coat put upon the back of a Chickasaw Indian. And then all the people began to say, "Why may not we be rich?" and like the ancient idolators in Ephesus, only with a different divinity, the cry was, "Great is Shoddy of America;" and all the people bowed down and worshipped at his shrine. Men that had not brains enough to make more than a scanty livelihood by legitimate means, began to manipulate the dice-boxes of speculative adventure and to bring up prizes. Old, decayed bankrupts, who had gone out of sight in the financial revulsion of former years, came to the top of society again as government agents and brokers in stocks; and while people were wondering who paid their debts, they were building freestone fronts, sporting equipages, and making the tour of Europe. Such a condition of financial fertility furnished a singular opportunity for scoundrelism to develope itself. Then, vice and crime left their ordinary channels and flowed into the tide of Commerce. The painted syrens of the brothel, the bloated lords of the gambling cellar, and the sharp-eyed broker of the curbstone, joined in partnership, and history at last confirmed the verdict of sense—that devils are of one and the same kidney. All the vices herd together by mutual affinity, and the fashionable thief of the Fifth Avenue has at last found his level in the cell of a murderer, with burglars and incendiaries, and lewd seducers flanking him on either side.

Let me say, in comment upon the late startling disclosures of the financial world, that a loosening of moral self control is the grand fountain of crime of whatever sort. The question, in what special form of crime this inherent taint and distemper shall develope itself, is entirely the accident of circumstances. The same man, with the condition of a suspended or smothered moral sense, in one set of circumstances may be an adulterer, and in another set of circumstances he will be a defaulter. Let fortune pour wealth into his lap through the ordinary channels, and the demon that presides within him may not come out in the form of flagrant dishonesty, so that though he may pass for a fast man, he may yet be held as an honest man, and command unlimited financial credit. But, now, let the divinities of trade conspire against him, and doom him to poverty, and, lo! one morning the world is startled with the report that Mr. So-and-so has run away with a hundred thousand dollars! And everybody is surprised; which only proves how stupid everybody was. I am well acquainted with a similar case. I remember, as far back as fifteen years ago, making a visit at the house of a certain man in a Western State. That man could have gone to any bank in the city where he dwelt and borrowed fifty thousand dollars, and no questions asked. Not a debt but was paid with punctuality, and none less than he was suspected of a taint in financial honor. But I had not held intercourse with the man twenty-four hours before I discovered that, for some reason, either constitutional or educational—probably both—he had a low moral organization, which developed itself in what might be called petty vices. He was remarkable for his facility and fecundity of unclean jests and anecdotes. He was a proverbial tippler in social festivity. He was a pretty intimate associate of the whiskey bottle, and occasionally he was so loose as to become what is called, in common parlance, "tight"—whatever that means, for I have no personal knowledge of such an experence. Fifteen years tampering with filthy dialect and rum! What sort of a sequence should you expect from that young man? And yet the man had never stolen a dime that anybody knew of till a few years ago, when, a trusted servant of the government, venting political gas about loyalty and all that, he reached his hand down into the Nation's wallet and took a hundred thousand dollars! A respectable steal, says the ethics of the time. If he had stolen on my pocket-book with five dollars in it, because he was hungry, he would have gone to State prison. But those gentleman thieves, who steal in liberal figures, we must consider whether they do not deserve a more elegant fate!

In conclusion, I wish to warn you against a morbid and most alarming feature in public sentiment. I mean the prevalent idolatry of financial power. It is my opinion, that whatever religious and moral culture young Edward Ketchum received in his childhood and youth, as a matter of theory, yet the practical heresy which he drank in with earliest lessons of the fireside was that the money-power was the only sort of power worthy of respect. To be the monarch of Wall street was in his judgment, to be dictator and lord everywhere. And I declare that the prevalent opinion of men, the fashionable ethics of the world, are calculated to confirm rather than unsettle a man in this pernicious judgment. The very servants in your kitchen are impregnated with the vile heresy, and feel a sense of essential inferiority on account of slender income and calico frocks. This horrible maxim has diseased the whole fabric of society to an extent of which we are little aware.

When the cholera was raging in Alexandria a balloon was sent up in the sky, which a piece of raw meat attached to it, which putrided in a few moments by reason of the tainted atmosphere. So the false ethics of life impregnate the whole air with moral disease, and men eat and drink damnation, and breathe it in unconsciously with every breath. The purging of society from crime must begin and go on at every fountain of public setiment. Our children must be taught the essential difference between talent and cunning—between the faculty of smartness that will do by the wholesale for money, and the normal capacity that can accumulate gain by legitimate appliances.

Hobbs, in describing the Parliamentary leaders in the time of Charles I., says, "If craft be wisdom, they were wise enough! but wise, as I define it, is he that knows how to bring his business to pass without the assistance of knavery and ignoble shifts, by the sole strength of his good contrivance. A fool may win from a better gamester by the advantage of false dice and the packing of cards."

I am ashamed to see how readily men will bow down to success that is gained by craft instead of real wisdom. For my own part, I will accept the destiny of a town pauper before I will do it.

The young men of the country cannot be too strongly exhorted to beware of the enticements of that bauble which men call Success—which too commonly predestinates the bankruptcy of Truth and Honor in the soul. The only way to secure Success which shall be abiding, is to work with clean hands and an honest heart. There are lies which do not come to light in Wall street, or find a lodging in the Tombs. They nestle in the secret bosom, they burrow in the licensed strategy of the counting-room, they lisp in the smooth dialect of the parlor. The only safeguard of manhood is to eschew all lies and embrace all truth. In Heaven are no lies and no liars to tell them; and to go to Heaven from a cottage of penury is better than to pave a man's way with ill-gotten gold to remorse and despair.

"MISS SMITH, I wish to speak to you, in private. Permit me to take you apart for a few moments," Miss Smith (who wasn't at all frightened.) "Certainly, sir, if you will promise to put me together again."

FIRST CASE UNDER THE "SAMPLE LAW."—On Thursday last, Peter M. Traugh, Esq., of Berwick, was arrested in this place for a violation of the so-called "sample law" which prohibits persons non-residents of Luzerne county, selling goods within its limits without taking out a license for which the County Treasurer charges $300. The penalty for the violation of the law is $300. When this infamous law was passed by Legislature last winter it caused unbounded indignation in the community, and it was thought that no one could be found dirty enough to outrage decency and defy popular feeling by becoming an informer. We are sorry that to Wilkes-Barre attaches the stigma of harboring such an individual. The circumstances of the case are as follows: Mr. Traugh is a merchant miller just over the county line in Columbia, and has for years sold largely at wholesale to merchants throughout the county. Amongst other customers was a firm in this place, who lately went into bankruptcy and are now settling with their creditors at 20 per cent. Mr. Traugh was one of the creditors when this firm failed. J. L. Council, the informer was in the employ of the bankrupts prior to their failure, and it is supposed is a tool for them in this spite action as he was heard to say that "Traugh was rich, and he would make $150 out of him," as half of the fine under the law goes to the informer. Chief of Police Kearney took Mr. Traugh into custody, and conveyed him before S. E. Parsons, Esq., by whom he was held in $300 for his appearance at Court.

Mr. Traugh intends to contest the constitutionality of the law. It is hardly probable however that the case will be tried before the law is repealed. If it should be we pity the man who will have to appear before our court as a prosecutor in such a suit.—Lut. Union.

THE NEW BABY.—We have had so many kind friends ask about that baby, that we have thought it necessary to biograph the chap briefly, and somewhat after the current style of the day. It's a boy. He's a buster. Weighs nine pounds and a quarter; an old woman tells us he will grow heavier as his weight increases. He's the first boy of which we've ever been proprietor, and of course is the only baby in town. The old woman before-mentioned declared him the very image of his pa; "a little copy of his faithful sire in face and gesture." But in justice to the youth, we must say we think him an improvement on the original—a world of progress, you know! This young American is as old as could be expected considering the time he was born, and will doubtless be too old for his father in a few years, if he has good luck. He is quite reticent in politics, and only wants to be left alone. We think he favors Mrs. Winslow's police. We haven't named him yet; we want to give him a distinguished cognomen, but the fame of our great men is at present so precarious that we don't like to risk. It is perhaps unnecessary to say, as all biographers do of distinguished personages, that the subject of this sketch was born at a very early age, of poor but respectable parents."—Western Paper.

The Editor—A School-boy's Composition.

A SCHOOLBOY'S composition on "The Editor" ran as follows, in a school not far from Cincinnati:

"THE EDITOR.—The editor is one of the happiest animals in the known world. He can go to the circus, afternoon and evening, without paying a cent; also to inquests and hangings. He has free tickets to picnics and strawberry festivals, gets wedding cake sent him, and sometimes gets a licking, but not often, for he can take things back the next issue, which he generally does. I never knew only one editor to get lickt.—His paper busted that day, and he couldn't take nothing back.

"While other folks have to go to bed early, the editor can sit up late every night, and see all that's going on. The boys think it's a big thing to hang out till 10 o'clock. When I am a man I mean to be an editor, so I can stay out nights. Then that will be bully. The editor don't have to saw wood or do any chopping, except with his scissors. Railroads get up excursions for him, knowing if they didn't he'd make 'em get up and git. In politics he don't care much who he goes for if they are on his side. If they ain't he goes for 'em anyhow, so it amounts to nearly the same thing. There is a great many people trying to be editors who can't and some of them have been in the profession for years. They can't see it, though. If I was asked if I had rather have a education or be a circus rider, I would say, let me go and be an editor."

DANCING THEIR RAGS OFF.—Two unsophisticated country lasses visited Niblo's, in New York, during the ballet season. When the short-shirted, gossamer-clad nymphs made their appearance on the stage they became restless and fidgety.

"Oh, Annie!" exclaimed one, sotto voce.

"Well, Mary?"

"It ain't nice—I don't like it."

"Hush."

"I don't care, it ain't nice; and I wonder why aunt brought us to such a place."

"Hush, Mary, the folks will laugh at you."

After one or two flings and a pirouette the blushing Mary said:

"Oh, Annie, let's go—it ain't nice, and I don't feel comfortable."

"Do hush, Mary," replied the sister, whose face was scarlet, though it wore an air of determination: "it's the first time I ever was at a theater, and I suppose it will be the last; so I am just going to see it out, if they dance every rag off their backs!"

THAL'S ME.—We heard a good story of a "pert" youngster, whose existence on this portion of the moral vineyard would extend over the period of five long, long years. His mother expecting to receive company, had fixed him up so sweetly, arranging his hair and attire only as a mother can. As a sort of a finishing touch,

The Columbian.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 16, 1868.

☞ THE COLUMBIAN has the Largest Circulation in Columbia and adjoining counties of any paper published here, and is also a much larger sheet than any of its cotemporaries; and is therefore the best medium for advertising in this section of the State.

Attention! Democrats!!

In order that cheap reading matter may be furnished the people until after the election, we make the following offer:

That we will send THE COLUMBIAN from now until after the Presidential election to clubs of twenty FOR FIVE DOLLARS. This is only Twenty five cents a number—and just covers the cost of the paper on which it is printed. The paper contains each week sixteen large columns of entertaining literary and political news.

No Democrat is so poor but what he can give twenty five cents to aid in the coming contest, and he should see that his Radical neighbor has a copy.

Clubs should be formed at every Post Office.

Bloom Township.

THE following are the Democratic majorities at the Bloomsburg election:

Boyle, for Auditor General, - 15.
Piollet, for Congress, - 18.
Ent, for Surveyor General, - 47.

651 votes were polled, being a large increase over any former year. The total vote last year was 544 and in 1866 it was 535. Upon a complete test of party strength, this district is shown to be Democratic, and likely to remain so in future. The majority in 1866 for Geary was 71, and in elections for previous years the Republican majority had been greater. One year it was 85 and another 87. But last year we obtained a majority of 16 for Sharswood, and this year that majority is maintained upon a very full vote, and when every effort was put forth by the Radicals to retrieve their losses and regain a majority. The vote for General Ent shows that he received the support of 15 Republicans, increasing his majority by 30. The result in Bloom is most satisfactory, and richly rewards our friends for all their exertions and zeal.

APROPOS of a remark that Russians are absolutely incapable of understanding or appreciating a joke, this story is related: "An Englishman was relating to a Russian friend that he had once seen on a country road a post with this inscription: "This road leads to the town; all persons who cannot read this may apply to the blacksmith." To the great anguish of the narrator, his friend remained perfectly composed, and thanked him for his story with a studied politeness which showed that he had not understood it in the least. But the next morning the Russian burst into his room in convulsions of laughter, exclaiming, "My friend, I do understand it now! Fool that I was not to think of it! As if the blacksmith might not be away from home!"

OUT.—Virginia—glorious old Virginia—the mother of States and of Statesmen, one of the original thirteen that achieved the independence of our country, the State that holds in her bosom the ashes of Washington, and Jefferson and Madison and Monroe and Patrick Henry—and her younger sisters, Mississippi and Texas, are to day out of the Union. They had got back under Andrew Johnson, but the Radicals kicked them out again and are keeping them out. Oh! loyalty, what crimes are perpetrated in that hackneyed name!

TYPOGRAPHICAL TROTTERS.—From time immemorial the followers of Faust were satisfied to tramp afoot and alone—and scarce a generation ago the jolly journeymen who upheld the honor of the craft considered a change of shirt an extraordinary luxury. But times progress and so do printers. Few years ago on his westward way started from the DEMOCRAT establishment wherein he had honorably graduated, with no capital but his own energy, our young friend Jack McReynolds, a squatter sovereign for Kansas. Already he is a man of mark. We knew him as a bully boy—esteemed him as a printer—heard of him as a promising poet, and judging from the following extract he may ere long become a perfect pacer. The Miami Republican, published at Paola, in Kansas, contains this article: "At the great Western Horse Fair, which came off at Independence, Mo., last week, John McReynolds, Esq., of this place, took the first premium for the best pair of match horses. Mac's spanking bays" will take the first premium at all the fairs, as they cannot be beat in the West."

AN editor and his wife were walking out in the bright moonlight one evening. Like all editors' wives, she was of an exceedingly poetic nature—"Notice that moon; how bright and calm and beautiful?" "Couldn't think of noticing it," returned the editor, "for anything less than twenty-five cents a line."

GRAND TORCH LIGHT PARADE

ON Thursday, October 8th, one of the largest, if not the very largest meeting ever held in Northern Pennsylvania, assembled in Bloomsburg.

The day was rainy and unpleasant, and no doubt deterred hundreds from coming, and besides induced many to leave the processions and hasten to town In fact, all the stables in town were filled two hours before the arrival of the delegations, and at 9 o'clock we counted fifty carriages in the 'Exchange' yaad.

The delegations were all at the appointed places of meeting at the hour fixed by the Chief Marshal, and so systematic were the arrangements that but little delay occurred. At 11:30 the procession took up its line of march, headed by Chief Marshl Capt. C. B. Brockway and his assistants, E. W. Elwell, C. S. Furman, Wm. Ritter, Lieut. George S. Coleman, John Jones, John Troup, Sanford Pegg and C. M. Vanderslice. Then followed the Bloomsburg delegation headed by our Brass Band. A four horse wagon followed this, with 37 young ladies, emblematic of the States in the Union, and in their centre a beautiful personification of the Goddess of Liberty. This feature of the meeting was gotten up through the industry of Adjt. Coleman. The "White Boys in Blue" followed the ladies on foot, in marshalled by Geo. Sterner. In the rear of the Bloom delegation was a personification of the "Georgia Legislature," and a Salt River Boat bearing the motto, "No Jew allowed in this Department, by General order No. 11." The caricatures were excellent.

Then followed the Little Fishingcreek delegation under the Marshalship of Mr. Ikeler, Hemlock and Madison under T. J. Vanderslice, Jr., Montour and a mile of Democrats from Catawissa and beyond. As soon as this delegation got under way, the Fishingcreek region fell in preceded by the Orangeville Brass Band, and led by Marshall Col. H. R. Kline. This delegation numbered 135 wagons, and extended two miles. One of the wagons had 16 horses driven by Cyrus B. McHenry. Sugarloaf, the most distant of all townships, was fully represented, one large wagon load having come 26 miles. The mottoes and banners were excellent. The one borne by the Light Street delegation representing P. John kneeling to Andy Johnson, and presenting him with a copy of the Republican with the remark, "If you will only retain me as Assessor, I will support your policy and make the Republican party a unit for you," was a sore pill for Palemon's patients. On Fifth Street the up river delegation joined the procession, led by the Berwick Brass Band. Centre twp. had a wagon load of young ladies representing the different States, got up in magnificent style and elicited much attention. The "Freedmen's Bureau" was also an institution. Its chief was continually occupied in paying out greenbacks to indolent darkeys, much to their satisfaction.

The line of march was down Smoketown to Fifth Street, down Fifth to Market, up Market to Third, up Third to Smoketown, down Main to West Street, thence to Third, and as the streets were now all full, the procession began to double up on Main St. To give an idea of its length we may state that when the head of the head of the procession was back at the Forks, there were two columns on Main Street, Market Street was packed full, and one third of the procession had not passed. It was 2½ hours in passing a given point and would have extended 5 miles in a continuous line.

About half past two o'clock the people commmenced thronging their way towards the Fair Ground, and by three o'clock the multitude had mainly gathered in.

John A. Funston, Esq., Chairman of the County Standing Committee, called the meeting to order and organized it as follows:

President, Hon. C. R. Buckalew.

Vice-Presidents, Hudson Owen, Wm Lamon, Chas. F. Mann, John J. McHenry, Dr. J. R. Robbins, H. Sweppenhiser, C. B. McHenry, Jos. B. Knittle, Esq., Peter Girton, Esq., Jacob F. Deiterick, Judge Derr, Judge Herbine, John Smith, Esq., Wm. T. Shuman, Dr. D. H. Montgomery, Wm. G. Quick Wm. Howell, David Herring, John Whitmoyer, Jacob Terwilliger, Jesse Hartman.

Secretaries, Capt. C. B. Brockway, W. H. Jacoby, J. S. Sanders.

At stand No. 1. Hon. E. F. Pillsbury of Maine addressed the vast assemblage. But it being impossible to make the half of the people hear; a second meeting was organized, and Presided over by assisted by Vice Presidents and Secretaries. Hon. S. S. Cox of New Yok, Capt. Thomas Chalfant and others addressed the audience, at stand No. 2.

ROBERT E. CLARK, Esq.,

EVENING.

Long before the time of meeting the Court Room was literally jammed with people. It was addressed at length by Hon. S. S. Cox, in his very happiest style, for more than two hours. Gov. Pillsbury followed in a short and beautiful address.

While the former was speaking the Young Men's Democratic Club arrived by a special train from Danville, headed by Stoe's Band, and carrying in procession 200 torches. It was a fitting finale to so magnificent a meeting, and our people felt much gratified at witnessing the first Democratic torch-light procession ever held in Bloomsburg.

The meeting was a perfect success, both as to members and as to speeches. Every thing was of the very first class; and the day passed off without accidents or breaches of the peace. Most unbounded was the enthusiasm, and all the arrangements were complete and satisfactory.

NORRISTOWN, Oct. 13.—Republican majority 52, a gain of 48. The Democratic majority in this county will be about 1,000.

From Washington.

EXPOSITION OF A PLOT TO ASSASSINATE PRESIDENT JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The Express, this afternoon, says it is in possession of evidence that a conspiracy has been arranged for the assassination of President Johnson. The plot was exposed by an employee of the Treasury Department, who says the plot was arranged immediately after the impeachment trial. A man named Heimberger is said to be the leader of the assasins, who are all negroes.

THE ELECTION EXCITEMENT.

There is much excitement to-night concerning the election. Returns are constantly read at the general party head-quarters, while the newspaper offices are crowded with anxious inquirers. In the earlier part of the night both parties were olternately depressed and comforted by the retnrned from Pennsylvania.

From Ohio.

ZANESVIELE, October 13.—Democratic majority 28; last year 188. Republican gain 160.

STEUBENVILLE—Republican majority 339—a Republican gain.

CINCINNATI—Second ward, Eggleston 164 majority; again 17. Anondale, Eggleston 31; gain. Eleventh ward, Eggleston 491 majority; gain 92. A dispatch from Schenck's district says Republican gains are large. Twentieth ward, Strader 17 majority. Republican majority 4,500; gain 2,000.

Reports through Democratic sources show the defeat of Gibson. In the 9th district the Democrats gain in Franklin county 500 over last year.

COLUMBUS—Carey certainly defeated in the second district. Close vote on Eggleston. Meagre returns show Democratic gains in Columbus.

From Indiana.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A special dispatch to the Tribune states that Indiana gives 7,000 Republican majority.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 13.—Jeffersonville, Indiana, gives six hundred Democratic majority. New Albany, Indiana, gives one thousand Democratic majority. Indianapolis reports heavy Democratic gains and majorities as far as heard from.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 13.—South Bend gives 760 Republican majority.

Election in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 13.—The Republicans carried the city by about 400 majority—a gain of 350 over 1867.

GRECIAN BEND AND DISEASE.—Every physiologist is hourly pained by the exhibition of vanity of which a large mass of females are the perpetrators. To obtain what is called the "Grecian bend," they are torturing nature to such a degree that thousands of them will become the victims of cureless disease. Tight lacing drives the vitals from their natural position, displaces some of the most important parts of the organism, and renders those who suffer unfitted for the most ordinary duties of life. It is a crime to injure, by any artificial appliance, the beautiful mechanism of nature, and the invariable result of so doing is deformity, Which the eye of true taste cannot endure. The young lady who thinks she can improve her form by constraining it within boundaries less than those which nature demands for its service is not only thoughtless, but she is a criminal. She will find in a few years or perhaps months, that she has with her "Grecian bend" a disease that never can be wholly eradicated; and those who go to extremes in the absurd fashion of the day will assuredly find themselves sufferers from a complication of disorders. The wise young ladies of this county, we trust, will not be misled by the cruel inventions of modistes to adopt any fashion which strains the natural movements of the vital organs, or other parts of the admirable organism which is the gift of the Deity, and cannot be too sacredly respected.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

If our friends will use preparations for restoring gray hair they should use the best in the market. Our attention has lately been called to an article which has an extensive sale and very high reputation, known as Qing's Vegetable Ambrosia, and we are inclined to think that it possesses more desirable and less objection qualities than any other in the market. It restores gray or the faded hair to its original color by most invigorating and soothing properties; removes all dandruff and humors from the scalp. Give it a fair trial and you cannot fail to like it. Oct. 16, '68-4t.

WOMAN.—Females owing to the peculiar and important relations which they sustain, peculiar organization, and the offices they perform are subject to many sufferings. Freedom from these contribute in no small degree to their happiness and welfare, for none can be happy who are ill. Not only so, but no one of these various female complaints can long be suffered to run on without involving the general health of the individual, and ere long producing permanent sickness and permature decline. Nor is it diessant to consult a physician for the relief of these various delicate affections, and only upon the most urgent necessity will a true woman so far sacrifice her greatest charm as to do this. The sex will then thank us for placing in their hands simple specifices which will be found efficacus in relieving and curing almost every one of those troublesome complaints pecilliar to the sex.

Helmbold's Extract of Buchu.—Hundreds suffer on in silence, and hundreds of others apply vainly to the druggists and doctors, who either merely tantalize them with the hope of a cure or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do injustice to the afflicted, but I am obliged to say that although it may be reduced from excessive exhaustion of the powers of life, by labor rious employment, unwholesome air and food profuse menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, and frequent childbirth, it is for other causes than by direct irritation, applied to the mucous membrane of the vagina itself.

When reviewing the causes of these distressing complaints, it is most painful to contemplate the attendant evils consequent upon them, it is but simple justice to the subject to enumerate a few of the many additional causes who so largely affect the life, health and happiness of women, all classes of society, and which consequently affect more or less directly, the welfare of the entire human family. The sole treatment for the precious education and marriage, causes the organs that nature designed for corporeal development to be wasted and perverted in the remotest degree. The early abandonment of self, plunging heedlessly in the unhealthy excitement of the ballroom. A life, with the body half-developed, and the mind unduly excited by passion, perverting its healthful influences and functions. These are but a few of the many causes that, the world of destruction is hourly accomplished.

In consequence of this early strain upon her system, unnecessary effort in imitation of the other sex, the female becomes debilitated, and is at times day, to day, unprepared to meet the ordinary duties of life, much less to endure the additional strain of labor, or resist the attacks of disease. Under this state of things, Helmbold's Extract Buchu is more strengthening than any of the preparations of Bark or Iron, infinitely safer and more pleasant. Helmbold's Extract Buchu, having received the endorsement of the most prominent physicians in the United States is now offered to afflicted humanity as a certain cure for the following diseases and symptoms from whatever cause originating: General debility, mental and physical depression, imbecility, determination of Blood to Head, confused ideas, hysteria, general irritability, restlessness at night, absence of muscular Efficiency, loss of appetite, dyspepsia, emaciation, low spirits, disorganization or paralysis of the organs of generation, palpitation of the heart, and in fact debilitated state of the system. To insure the genuine, cut this out. Ask for Helmbold's. Take no other. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. Price $1.25 per bottle, or six bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address, Describe symptoms in all communications. Address. H. T. Helmbold's Drug and Chimical Warehouse, 594 Broadway, N. Y.

None are genuine unless done up in steel-engraved wrapper fac-simile of my Chemical Warehouse, and signed. H. T. HELMBOLD.
